FORMER COUNTY JURY OFFICER KILLED SUNDAY

Harry Whitcomb Is Struck By Automobile Early Sunday Morning.

Sunday traffic in Adams county took its weekly toll of a life when Harry Whitcomb, former county jury commissioner, for several years tax collector of Huntingdon township, and prominent resident of the upper end of Adams county, was instantly killed when struck by an automobile driven by Harvey S. Peffley, of Lebanon.

The accident, which occurred at 9:30 o'clock Sunday morning, happened within 150 yards of the home of Mr. Whitcomb's daughter, Mrs. Hiram Bream, where he was going to spend the day.

Mr. Bream, who, it is said, was slightly hard of hearing, started to cross the highway and was watching a machine headed in the direction of Gettysburg. It is believed he did not hear the warning sounded by Mr. Peffley until he was in the path of the Lebanon man's machine, which was being driven at a moderate rate of speed toward Gettysburg.

Lives Few Seconds
Mr. Peffley, driver of the machine which struck the aged pedestrian, applied the brakes when he saw Mr. Whitcomb and endeavored to avoid the accident. Mr. Whitcomb, however, became confused when he saw the approaching machine and stepped directly into the path of the car. The Lebanon man's car skidded for a considerable distance before it knocked down the aged man. The front wheel of the car passed over Mr. Whitcomb's body.

Mr. Whitcomb lived a few seconds after the accident, but died before he could be removed to the home of his daughter. Dr. C. L. Myers, of York Springs, was summoned immediately, and upon his arrival confirmed the death.

Dr. E. A. Miller, of Gettysburg, county coroner, impelled a jury to inquire into the death of the aged man. The jurors met shortly after noon at the Bream home where they viewed the body and heard witnesses.

Driver Exonerated
After hearing seven witnesses, Peffley was exonerated from all blame in connection with Mr. Whitcomb's death. On the jury were J. P. Emmert, Dr. C. L. Myers, H. M. Gardner, George P. Smith, Dewey E. Collins and Hillary R. Kennedy.

Witnesses heard by the coroner's jury were Adam Brandt, Mrs. Harvey Peffley, Rufus Long, Clarence W. Sabers, Mrs. Rufus Long and Mrs. C. W. Sabers, all of Lebanon, and Mrs. Hiram Bream, daughter of the deceased.

Several of the witnesses were in the Peffley car, which struck Mr. Whitcomb, while others were in another car from Lebanon, following the Peffley machine. Mrs. Bream had been watching her father coming toward her home, but did not see him knocked down.

Reasonable Speed

When she missed him on the highway and saw a number of cars stopped about 150 yards from her home, she ran to the place to learn that her father had been run over and killed.

Witnesses in the two Lebanon machines testified that the speed of the Peffley car was reasonable and that the driver made every effort to warn the pedestrian and to avoid the accident.

Mr. Whitcomb, a son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Whitcomb, of near York Springs, was a millwright by trade. He was a Democrat, and was always active in township and county politics.

He is survived by five sons, Samuel, of Bellefontaine, Ohio; George, Mechanicsburg; Elijah, York; Oscar, York Springs, and Heber, residing between York Springs and Heidlersburg, where Mr. Whitcomb made his home; two daughters, Mrs. William Howe, York (Continued on Second Page)

Coolidge-Dawes Lincoln Tour Will Hold Half Hour Meeting In Square.

REPUBLICANS CALLED

Plans for the reception and the subsequent meeting to be held here of the Coolidge-Dawes Lincoln Tour, Thursday, September 18, will be made at a meeting of Gettysburg and Adams county Republicans this evening at 7:30 o'clock at Republican headquarters on Baltimore street, according to announcement by J. Price Oyler, Republican county chairman.

The caravan, which is crossing the country by way of the Lincoln Highway, rallying Republicans to support the Coolidge-Dawes ticket, will spend Wednesday night at York, where a monster night meeting is being planned. Leaving York at 9:30, the campaigners will probably go to Hanover, thence to Abbotstown, arriving here at 11 o'clock.

A stop of half an hour is scheduled for Gettysburg, after which the cross-country campaigners will leave for Chambersburg and Bedford, where the night will be spent.

Jeffries Heads Tour
The tour, which begins September 9 at Plymouth, Vermont, home town of President Coolidge, is being directed by ex-Congressman A. W. Jeffries, of Omaha, Nebraska, who delivered the speech notifying General Dawes of his nomination at the recent ceremonies in Evanston, Illinois. Mr. Jeffries is an able speaker and will no doubt speak here. Another speaker on the tour is Herb Moore, a boyhood friend of President Coolidge.

Plans will be made at this evening's meeting to secure as large a turnout of Republicans in Adams county as possible to meet the caravan east of town and escort it to Center Square, where the speaking will take place. Each car in the advance party will carry a banner, designating it as an official car in the Coolidge-Dawes Lincoln Tour.

Advance Man Here
A. B. Price, advance man for the tourists, was in Gettysburg Sunday, in conference with County Chairman Oyler. He told Mr. Oyler that one of the features of the tour is the compilation of signatures of persons living along the Lincoln Highway, who voted for Lincoln for president. These autographs, together with a story of the tour, will be compiled in book form and presented to President Coolidge. He urged Mr. Oyler to have persons in Adams county, who voted for Lincoln, in Gettysburg on Thursday.

At the head of the Coolidge-Dawes Lincoln caravan will be a motor truck on which will be displayed a reproduction of the President's birthplace. Another feature of the expedition will be the fact that it will carry an amplifier, which will enable persons at open air meetings to hear distinctly what the speakers have to say.

Seattle, Washington, is the objective of the tour, which is expected to reach the Pacific Coast city on November 2, two days before the general fall presidential election.

PLACE MARKER ON HISTORICAL SITE

Conestoga Indian Town In Lancaster County Was Visited By William Penn In 1700.

The Pennsylvania Historical Society and Lancaster County Historical Society dedicated a marker on the site of the Conestoga Indian town in Lancaster county Saturday, in which a number of Adams county people were interested, and some from this section attended.

The Conestoga Indians were originally the Susquehanna tribe, discovered by Captain John Smith on one of his exploring expeditions to the mouth of the Susquehanna river. The remnants of the tribe lived in what is now Manor township, Lancaster county. Their relations with the white settlers in that section were friendly and pleasant. In December of 1763, during the Indian war conducted by Pontiac, some of the settlers around Paxtang, now Harrisburg, in a spirit of anger against all Indians, made a march against the peaceable village and, surrounding it in the early morning hours, killed and scalped all who were found there, men, women and children. The Indians who were not in the village at the time were warned by the Lancaster county settlers and taken to the workhouse, adjoining the county jail at Lancaster, for safety. A winter or two afterward, the "Paxtang Boys," as they named themselves, attacked the jail and murdered the Indian men, women and children being held there for safety, according to the historians.

Badger Chief
An impressive feature of the dedicatory exercises Saturday was the presence of an Ojibway Indian chief from Wisconsin. He was dressed in full Indian regalia. At the opening of the ceremonies, amidst a silence felt by all, he approached the marker on foot from the top of a nearby knoll, walked solemnly to the marker, and, advancing to the front of the platform from which the ceremonies were conducted, gave the Indian sign of "Friendship" and then, mounting the platform, with peace-pipe lighter, pronounced the invocation as follows:

"Oh, Thou Great Spirit of the universe, whose powers are displayed in the wonders of the sun and the beauties of the moon; in the leafy recesses of the forests and the unknown deep; the sun, as a father, and the earth as a mother, from whatsoever of the four corners we gather, let us be friends, and as friends, tread the final trail, we pray Thee, Oh, Great Mystery."

Visit In 1700
William Penn visited this Indian village in 1700, when he was entertained by the Conestoga Indian chief. While there, Penn wrote a letter to his secretary and this original letter was read at the exercises.

John Hanson Steelman, who, it has lately been discovered, was the first permanent settler west of the Susquehanna river and who lived and died in Liberty township, Adams county, at one time conducted an Indian trading station near the Conestoga village. D. C. Jacobs, of Arendtsville, and John D. Keith, Esq., of Gettysburg, were among those who attended from this section.

Announcement was made this morning by E. M. Bender, secretary of the hospital board of directors, of the election as a director of Warren R. Jones, cashier of the Littlestown National Bank, to fill the unexpired term of E. D. Buckley, who recently moved from Littlestown to Germantown.

AUGUST, BUSIEST HOSPITAL MONTH

Ninety-Two Patients To Local Institution And 26 Treated For Minor Accidents.

August was the busiest month in the history of the Annie M. Warner Hospital, a report of the month's work made public this morning by Miss Martha McKay, the superintendent, discloses.

Ninety-two patients were admitted to the institution, in addition to 26 persons who came to the hospital for treatment following minor accidents. Two hundred and twenty-nine laboratory examinations, a record for a hospital the size of the Gettysburg institution, were made during the month.

A summary of the month's work follows:

Patients admitted, 92; patients discharged, 79; births, 11; deaths, 3; average number of patients, per day, 20; patients remaining on last day of month, 21; radiographs, 80; laboratory examinations, 229; operations, 37; accident cases, 26; intravenous administrations, 4, and return dressings, 28.

Two of the three patients who died at the hospital last month suffered fractured skulls, while the third suffered a crushed chest, all as a result of automobile accidents.

Announcement was made this morning by E. M. Bender, secretary of the hospital board of directors, of the election as a director of Warren R. Jones, cashier of the Littlestown National Bank, to fill the unexpired term of E. D. Buckley, who recently moved from Littlestown to Germantown.

Two young men, one 20 and other 22 years old, succumbed to typhoid fever in Adams county over the week-end. One of the young men, Howard J. Shanebrook, contracted the malady while working at the stone quarry, near Round Top, while the other, Harry L. Myers, was taken ill while working as a stone mason in Baltimore. Both had been ill two weeks.

Mr. Shanebrook died at his home in Tyrone township, near Heidlersburg, Sunday morning at 6:30 o'clock, aged 22 years.

Mr. Shanebrook is survived by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Shanebrook, of New Chester; his wife, who was Miss Pearl Hess; one daughter, Helen, at home; two sisters, Mrs. Emory Bream, Abbotstown; Mrs. Luther Decker, Hunterstown, and three brothers, Charles, John and Mark, New Chester.

Funeral Tuesday

Harry L. Myers
Typhoid fever contracted two weeks ago in Baltimore during an epidemic, caused the death of Harry L. Myers, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry O. Myers, of near Fairfield, at the Warner Hospital, Saturday evening at 9 o'clock.

Mr. Myers, who was twenty years of age, worked for his father as a stone mason. Together the father and son had been working in Baltimore several weeks. Two weeks ago the young man became sick and returned to his home, near Fairfield, where his illness was diagnosed as typhoid fever.

Taken To Hospital
Later he was brought to the Warner Hospital. When he was admitted he had a temperature of 104 degrees, and, although everything possible was done at the institution to relieve his suffering, it was feared that his life could not be saved.

He is survived by his parents, four sisters, Misses Helen, Clara, Anna and Ethel, and five brothers, Earl, Clyde, George, Paul and Raymond, all of Fairfield.

REVENGE, CAUSE OF MURDER AND SUICIDE AFFRAY

(By Associated Press.)

Carlisle, Sept. 15.—Revenge was attributed by Carlisle police today as the cause of the shooting to death last night of Mrs. Lillian Dotter, 52, and the wounding of her daughter, Addie, 34, by Michael Less, 52, who then killed himself. The shooting occurred in the Dotter home. The wounded woman is in a serious condition in a local hospital where physicians said this afternoon she probably would die.

The police were told that the young woman had been employed as the man's housekeeper until two weeks ago. Since then they learned Less had visited the Dotter home several times and threatened the young woman if she would not return to keep house for him.

CAR DAMAGED AT END OF LONG TRIP

C. Paul Cessna Overtaken by Misfortune After 1500 Mile Motor Tour in Four States.

Within two miles of home, after successfully touring more than 1,500 miles through New York, Ohio, Maryland and Pennsylvania, misfortune Sunday evening overtook C. Paul Cessna, Baltimore street, proprietor of The Gift Shop, Chambersburg street.

With Mr. Cessna were his wife, their son, Jack, and Paul Perdew, of Cumberland, Maryland, who was accompanying the Cessnas to Gettysburg to attend Gettysburg College.

Just west of the Belmont school house on the Lincoln Highway, west of Gettysburg, Mr. Cessna, who was driving his touring car, was proceeding toward Gettysburg at a moderate rate of speed.

Travelling in the opposite direction were a number of machines, among them that driven by Clarence Brown, of Cashtown. Mr. Brown, it is said, left the traffic line in order to pass another car proceeding in the same direction.

In doing so, he drove directly into the path of Mr. Cessna's machine, according to reports, and the accident resulted. Both cars were so badly damaged in the crash that they had to be towed to Gettysburg. Both were taken to Eddie Plank's Garage, York street.

No one in either car was injured.

SEEK BIDS FOR $55,000 BONDS

Mt. Pleasant Township Supervisors to Dispose of Road Bond Issues; Sealed Bids Asked For.

The $55,000 bond issue to be floated by the Mt. Pleasant township supervisors to pay for the township's share of the road now being built in that township on the Gettysburg-Hanover road is to be sold on sealed bids which have been called for September 30.

The issue is to bear interest at the rate of five per cent, and, in view of tax free features, it is believed that it will be sold above par. Two series are now being provided for, the first of $10,000 to mature in ten years, and the second of $45,000 to mature in thirty years. It was thought by the supervisors that the burden of the debt could be more easily handled in this way.

The issue was to be dated as of October 1, and interest will start on that date, but the proposal made public by the board of supervisors of the township provides that the successful bidder will have to have the bonds printed and lithographed at his own expense, the effort being made to have the entire proceeds of the sale available for the road building purposes. Certified checks for two per cent of the amount of the bids are being required by the supervisors.

This is the first large local bond issue to be sold since Adams county put out its big bridge loans several years ago and since Gettysburg floated $85,000 worth of bonds for street improvements. Several smaller issues have been sold since that time.

The Mt. Pleasant bonds will be payable both as to interest and principal at the Lincoln Trust Company here, the supervisors, D. M. Diehl, J. L. Hockensmith and M. C. Topper, announce.

$250,000 HOTEL ADDITION TO BE ERECTED HERE

Start Excavation Within 30 Days For Annex to Hotel Gettysburg.

A theater-auditorium with a seating capacity of more than 1200, a ballroom, gymnasium, office-building and exclusive "shops section" will soon be a reality in Gettysburg when workmen start breaking ground for the Hotel Gettysburg's new $250,000 annex on Carlisle street, in the rear of the present structure.

Announcement was made this morning by Manager Henry M. Scharf that workmen would start breaking ground for the hotel annex within the next 30 days, that the contract would be let some time this week and that the new structure would be completed and ready for occupancy on or before June 1, 1925.

Final arrangements for the erection of the addition to the already spacious Hotel Gettysburg were completed last week when directors placed their stamp of approval upon the plans and specifications as submitted by W. H. Lee, architect, Philadelphia.

Splendid Addition
The hotel annex will be a splendid addition, not only to the Gettysburg Hotel, but to the community and will serve as an added inducement to others to participate in the progressive construction boom that is being advocated by a number of public-spirited citizens who foresee in Gettysburg a remarkable future that can only be stunted by selfishness and lack of co-operative "pulling" on the part of Gettysburg merchants and business men.

Announcement that the Hotel Gettysburg management planned the erection of an addition some time this year "as made several months ago, but final adoption of the plans was not reached until last week.

The annex will be a three story structure of steel, concrete and Magnesite stucco, built along lines similar to those that embrace the present building. It will be constructed in the rear of the hotel with a fronting on Carlisle street. Connection with the main hotel building will be by a spacious tram-way passage from the second and third floors, thus making two distinct structures with adequate and suitable connections.

The building will front 145 feet on Carlisle street and will run in depth, on one side, 120 feet and on the auditorium side, 150 feet.

A beautiful and commodious lobby will form the entrance in the center of the building with a marquee covering extending over the sidewalk.

Cluster Lights
Cluster lights will be erected on Carlisle street in front of the building, thus affording adequate lighting facilities for the proper display of Gettysburg's new auditorium which will be housed therein.

Four shops will form the front display of the annex. These shops will be constructed along lines of the most modern convenience, and will be leased to exclusive shops' proprietors, with a view towards beautifying this section of Carlisle street, thus adding considerably to Gettysburg's business section.

Entrance to the auditorium will be gained through the outside and interior lobby, through a foyer on the left of the entrance. The auditorium-theater will be 110 by 75 feet with a stage setting 67 by 30 feet. Loges, boxes and the balcony will bring the seating capacity well over 1200, thus filling a long felt need in Gettysburg, for an auditorium for community purposes.

When the auditorium is not in use for community affairs, it will be operated as a moving picture house, screening the latest in cinema attractions.

Ball Room, Gym
The ball room and gymnasium will be located on the right of the auditorium on the first floor. It will be 60 by 85 feet with a basketball court of regulation size, bleachers and (Continued on Second Page)

Beyreuth.—There is much speculation as to whether the Wagner Festival, revived this year, will be continued beyond the death of Frau Cosima Wagner, widow of the noted composer. The World War and the ten years of darkness it brought to the Wagner Festival theatre have brought changes in the artistic as well as the economic and social world.

Performances of the Wagner operas, which were acceptable on the old-fashioned stage of the Beyreuth opera house ten years ago, very clearly do not satisfy today. There is a demand now for new scenery, new stage machinery, new methods of production. Admitting the excellence of the orchestra and the adequate singing of the chorus and the principals in most of the offerings this year as Beyreuth, many critics, and chiefly German critics at that, express the opinion that the opera houses in Berlin, Dresden and Munich, with their adequate modern stages, offer better productions of the Wagnerian operas than Beyreuth affords.

Pinchot Hurries To Dying Nurses' Side

(By Associated Press.) Harrisburg, Sept. 15.—Governor Pinchot, who underwent a throat operation in a New York hospital, hurriedly left the institution today for his home at Milford to be at the bedside of his childhood nurse, Mary McCadden, over 80 years of age, who is seriously ill. P. S. Stahlnecker, his secretary, announced at the executive offices here. The woman had been in the Pinchot family for many years and the Governor expressed a desire to be at what is probably her death bed, at her bedside.

Prince May Delay His Departure For Canada

(By Associated Press.) Syosset, N. Y., Sept. 15.—The Prince of Wales is having so much fun on his American holiday that he may prolong his stay on Long Island. Although his departure for Canada has tentatively been set for Thursday night, members of the royal party said today he might change his mind and put in a few more days of holiday play. He has had a little more peace lately for he has been more fortunate in dodging curious crowds.

FLYING ORDERS UPSET MARKET

(By Associated Press.) New York, Sept. 15.—Appearance of large flying orders in a number of speculative issues at opening of today's stock market brought about short coverings and a recovery of prices. Attempts of bear traders to unsettle the general list by offering some of the standard industrials met with little success and was soon abandoned. Good buying was noted in railroads, foods, rubber, leather, tobacco, chemical, independent steel and public utility issues, although trading was on a restricted scale. Call money was renewed at two per cent.

MEXICAN RENO IS EXAGGERATED

Houston, Tex.—A report that Progresso, Mexico, has become a Mexican El Reno and that divorces are easy to obtain on almost any grounds after 30 days residence, has become so widespread that the agents of a Galveston steamship line, whose ships touch at Progresso, have been besieged with requests for passage to that port.

Hermenegildo Valdes, Mexican consul at Houston, however, is not sure that the information is accurate. Generally speaking, Mr. Valdes said, divorces are governed by a federal statute passed in 1917 which requires a residence of approximately one year for the divorce petitioner.

"He must," Mr. Valdes added, "have good grounds for his action and must be prepared to submit proof of the allegations in his petition. In other words, the machinery for obtaining divorces in Mexico is much like it is in the United States."

Men's and women's locker-rooms, rest rooms and cloak rooms, will adjoin the ball room on three sides, while on the fourth side will be a large kitchen equipped in the latest fixtures. This completes the requirements in event that the gymnasium is put into use for a banquet hall.

On the second floor, balcony-level, facing Carlisle street will be thirteen offices, fronting on the outside, while in the inside will be a spectators gallery for the ball-room and basketball court. Team-rooms and other convenient quarters suitable for various purposes will be provided floor space on this level also.

Entrance to the offices on the second floor will be gained from a large street entrance on Carlisle street, thus keeping this section of the structure separate and distinct from the annex proper, although in the same structure.

BANDITS OBTAIN $7500 SAFE LOOT

Philadelphia, Sept. 15.—A night watchman in the packing plant of the Standard Provision Company sat two hours bound, gagged, blindfolded and tied to a chair early Sunday morning, while expert safe-crackers were at work in an adjoining office drilling and jimmying the huge steel box which, when open, yielded $1500 in cash, a rare platinum and diamond necklace and other jewelry valued at $6000.

Two of the cracksmen opened the box while a third, whom the others called "Tommy," stood, revolver in hand, in front of Hugh O'Hara, 3842 Fairmount avenue, the elderly watchman. When the safe finally yielded to their efforts they untied O'Hara from the chair, and loosening all his bonds except the gag over his mouth, escaped through a rear door.

SYNOPSIS

Sir Oliver Treaslian is betrothed to Rosamund Godelphin, but the marriage is opposed by Rosamund's brother, Peter, and her guardian, Sir John Killigrew. When Oliver's young half-brother, Lionel, falls Peter in a quarrel suspicion falls on Oliver. A trail of blood is found leading from the body to his doorway. Even Rosamund believes him guilty. Desiring to protect Lionel, Oliver can only protest his innocence; but he obtains from the justices a document, to be produced in case of trial, attesting to the fact that he bears no mark of recent wound; that therefore the trail of blood, obviously that of the murderer, is not his. A few weeks later trial threatens; and Lionel, crazed with fear that Oliver will reveal the truth, hires a pirate sea-captain, Jasper Leigh, to abduct him and sell him as a galley-slave. With Oliver's disappearance it is assumed he has fled to escape trial. Out at sea Leigh offers, for a price, to take Oliver back to England, and is about to turn back when a great Spanish ship bears down upon them, her guns in action. The Swallow, unarmed, is sunk.

From ambush Sak-el-Bahr, the Hawk of the Sea, directs his own two galleys in an attack on a Spanish ship which has drifted into a haven on the northern coast of Africa. The Spaniard, unprepared, surrenders after a brief engagement.

Of the others Sak-el-Bahr made short work. He offered the privilege of ransom himself to any who might claim it, and the privilege was claimed by three. The rest he consigned to the care of Bishafne, who acted as his kalya, or lieutenant. But before doing so he bade the ship's bosun stand forward, and demanded to know what slaves there might be aboard. There were, he learned, but a dozen, employed upon menial duties on the ship—three Jews, seven Moslems, and two heretics—and they had been driven under the hatches when the peril threatened.

By Sak-el-Bahr's orders these were dragged forth from the blackness into which they had been flung. The Moslems, upon discovering that they had fallen into the hands of their own people and that their slavery was at an end, broke into cries of delight and fervent praise of Allah, than whom they swore there was no other God. The three Jews, lithe, stalwart young men in black tunics that fell to their knees and black skull-caps upon their curly black locks, smiled ingratiatingly, hoping for the best since they were fallen into the hands of people who were nearer akin to them than Christians and allied to them, at least, by the bond of common enmity to Spain and common suffering at the hands of Spaniards.

The two heretics stood in stolid apathy, realizing that with them it was but a case of passing from Charybdis to Scylla, and that they had as little to hope for from heathen as from Christian. One of these was a sturdy, bow-legged fellow, whose garments were little better than rags; his weather-beaten face was of the color of mahogany and his eyes of a dark blue under tufted eyebrows that once had been red—like his hair and beard—but were now thickly intermingled with grey. He was spotted like a leopard on the hands by enormous dark brown freckles.

Of the entire dozen he was the only one that drew the attention of Sak-el-Bahr. He stood despondently before the corsair, with bowed head and his eyes upon the deck, a weary, dejected, spiritless slave who would as soon die as live. Thus some few moments during which the stalwart Moslem stood regarding him; then as if drawn by that persistent scrutiny he raised his dull, weary eyes. At once they quickened, the dullness passed out of them; they were bright and keen as of old. He thrust his head forward, staring in his turn; then in a bewildered way he looked about him at the ocean of swarthy faces under turbans of all colors, and back again at Sak-el-Bahr.

"God's light!" he said at last, in English, to vent his infinite amazement. Then reverting to the cynical manner that he had ever affected and effacing all surprise:

"Good day to you, Sir Oliver," said he. "I suppose ye'll give yourself the pleasure of hanging me."

"Allah is great!" said Sak-el-Bahr impassively.

CHAPTER X
THE RENEGADE

How it came to happen that Sak-el-Bahr, the Hawk of the Sea, the Moslem rover, the scourge of the Mediterranean, the terror of Christians and the beloved of Asad-ed-Din, Basha of Algiers, would be one and the same as Sir Oliver Treaslian, the Cornish gentleman of Penarrow, is at long length set forth

In the chronicles of Lord Henry Coad.

Sir Oliver was one of a score of men who were rescued from the sea by the crew of the Spanish vessel that had sunk the Swallow; another was Jasper Leigh, the skipper. All of them were carried to Lisbon, and there handed over to the Court of the Holy Office. Since they were heretics all—or nearly all—it was fit and proper that the Brethren of St. Dominic should undertake their conversion in the first place.

Sir Oliver came of a family that never had been famed for rigidity in religious matters, and he was certainly not going to burn alive if the adoption of other men's opinions upon an extremely hypothetical future state would suffice to save him from the stake. He accepted Catholic baptism with an almost contemptuous indifference. As for Jasper Leigh, it will be conceived that the elasticity of the skipper's conscience was no less than Sir Oliver's, and he was certainly not the man to be roasted for a trifle of faith.

No doubt there would be great rejoicings in the Holy House over the rescue of these two unfortunate souls from the certain perdition that had awaited them. It followed that as converts to the Faith they were warmly cherished, and tears of thanksgiving were profusely shed over them. So much for their heresy. They were completely pardoned of it, having done penance in proper form at an Auto held on the Rocle at Lisbon, candle in hand and sanbenito on their shoulders. The Church dismissed them with her blessing and an injunction to persevere in the ways of salvation.

Now this dismissal amounted to a rejection. They were, as a consequence, thrown back upon the secular authorities, and the secular authorities had yet to punish them for their offense upon the seas. No offense could be proved, it is true. But the courts were satisfied that this lack of offense was but the natural result of a lack of opportunity. Conversely, they reasoned, it was not to be doubted that with the opportunity the offense would have been forthcoming. Their assurance of this was based upon the fact that when the Spaniard fired across the bows of the Swallow as an invitation to heave to, she had kept upon her course. Thus, with unanswerable Castilian logic was the evil conscience of her skipper proven.

Captain Leigh protested on the other hand that his action had been dictated by his lack of faith in Spaniards and his firm belief that all Spaniards were pirates to be avoided by every honest seaman who was conscious of inferior strength of armaments. It was a plea that won him no favor with his narrow-minded judges.

Sir Oliver fervently urged that he was no member of the crew of the Swallow, that he was a gentleman who found himself aboard her very much against his will, being the victim of a villainous piece of trepanning executed by her venal captain. The court heard his plea with respect, and asked to know his name and rank. He was so very indiscreet as to answer truthfully. The result was extremely educative to Sir Oliver; it showed him how systematically conducted was the keeping of the Spanish archives. The court produced documents enabling his judges to recite to him most of that portion of his life that had been spent upon the seas, and many an awkward little circumstance which had slipped his memory long since, which he now recalled, and which certainly was not calculated to make his sentence lighter.

Had he not been in the Barbades in such a year, and had he not there captured the galleon Maria de la Dolores? What was that but an act of villainous piracy? Had he not scuttled a Spanish carack four years ago in the bay of Funchal? Had he not been with that pirate Hawkins in the affair at San Juan de Ulloa? And so on. Questions poured upon him and engulfed him.

He almost regretted that he had given himself the trouble to accept conversion and all that it entailed at the hands of the Brethren of St. Dominic. It began to appear to him that he had but wasted time and escaped the clerical rope to be dangled on a secular noose as an offering to the vengeful gods of outraged Spain.

So much, however, was not done. The galleys in the Mediterranean were in urgent need of men at the time, and to this circumstance Sir Oliver, Captain Leigh, and some others of the luckless crew of the Swallow owed their lives, though it is to be doubted whether any of them found the matter one for congratulation. Chained each man to fellow, ankle to ankle, with but a short length of links between, they formed part of a considerable herd of unfortunates who were driven across Portugal into Spain and then southward to Cadiz.

McSHERRYSTOWN WINS PENNANT

McSherrystown clinched the Adams County league pennant on Saturday by defeating New Oxford 2 to 0. Arendtsville's double loss to Biglerville several weeks ago gave the St. Mary's outfit clear sailing for the league lead and they have retained position ever since.

The 1924 season, the first year of the league's existence, was a decided success. Officials of the league on Saturday expressed satisfaction with the conduct of the games and intimated that, with a few changes in the league rules, the 1925 season is expected to prove even more successful and attractive.

Every town in the league has signified its intention of placing a team in the league again next year.

With two games to play, the best that Hanover, runner-up in the league, can do is to come within a half game of the league top, while McSherrystown must lose all games.

Blame Metal Roofs For Extreme Heat

Tokio—Three hundred thousand metal roofs in Tokio, most of them tin and galvanized iron, are adding appreciably to the discomforts of one of the hottest summers in recent years. More than one-half the city's population lives in buildings erected since the earthquake of last September, and nearly all these buildings have metal roofs. Temperatures in such houses are from 5 to 10 degrees Fahrenheit higher than in buildings roofed with slate or tile.

Experts say the heat is not the only discomfort engendered by the metal roofs. Tokio and its suburbs are suffering the worst summer drought in 30 years. Districts to the north and southwest get rain, but not the Tokio metropolitan area, and half the wells in the suburbs have dried up.

It is argued that Tokio gets no rain because the metal roofs, reflecting the sun's rays, generate a body of superheated air which rises and carries the rain clouds away.

Umpire Crum Orders Weikert Out Of Pastime On Saturday For Protesting Decision.

A climax in James Crum's career as an umpire in the Adams County League came Saturday when he forfeited to Biglerville the game with Gettysburg on the Playground here, by the score 9 to 0, after sending to the bench "Wib" Weikert, the "Bullets" catcher.

Crum's decisions on balls and strikes and at the plate, disputed at Arendtsville several weeks ago, at Biglerville a week ago, and here on Saturday, have brought a flood of protests from fans in Gettysburg and in other towns of the League. Most of the protests are being made on the ground of "incompetency and lack of knowledge of the National pastime."

Saturday's contest was the first forfeited game in the League this season and it is likely that "Doc" Tate, manager of the local nine, will protest the forfeiture and ask that the game be played again with some other arbiter than Crum behind the plate.

Climax In Sixth

Crum's calling of balls and strikes and one or two other decisions at the home sack were disputed by a number of both Gettysburg and Biglerville players before the game got to the sixth frame. The climax, however, came in the first half of the sixth inning with the visitors at bat.

Raff, first man up, was thrown out at first. Then Thomas and Foreman both singled to right field. Came another clout to right from the willow of Pitcher Bream, while Thomas and Foreman raced for the plate.

Foreman slid into the sack in a cloud of dust, as Weikert, receiving the ball from Gilbert in right field, tagged the runner. Although Crum denies that he hesitated in making his decision, it appeared that he waited a few seconds before calling Foreman safe.

Weikert immediately proceeded to "bawl out" Crum, not so much for the decision as for the delay in making it. Crum protested to Weikert, saying he had called the man safe immediately. Then the doughty little Gettysburg backstop is said by Crum to have called him a "prevaricator" and from the bench Weikert could be heard telling Crum that it was not the first time he had waited before making a decision.

Warns Manager

Before many seconds passed, a crowd of Gettysburg and Biglerville fans were around the disputants. After Weikert passed the alleged epithet to Crum, the latter sent him to the bench and gave the "Bullets" manager five minutes, four more, the umpire said, than the rules allow, to proceed with the game.

Without Weikert, "Doc" Tate admitted his team was unable to proceed. However, efforts were made to switch Gilbert from right field to the position and at one time word came from the group of disputants around home plate that the game would go on.

Famous Coin Act

This turned out to be a false alarm, however, and both Gettysburg and Biglerville players proceeded to pack up their belongings and leave the diamond, while the fans dispersed. Crum's ability as an umpire was given its first setback at Arendtsville several weeks ago when during a game with Gettysburg he tossed a coin to decide whether a catch in the field had been fair or not. For this he was severely censured by Gettysburg and Arendtsville followers of the National pastime.

Biglerville jumped into the lead in Saturday's game in the first inning, pounding in three runs off Musselman's offerings. After scoring another run in the third inning, Biglerville was held scoreless until the sixth, while Gettysburg drove in two runs in the third and one in the fourth frames.

The contest, punch by punch, until the sixth inning follows:

MOSQUITOES

The summer season just ending has been the worst in the history for mosquitoes in Gettysburg and vicinity.

They have been more numerous and more pesty, it seems.

During the warm, sultry evenings, many persons were driven from their front porches night after night, after a weary battle with the pests.

The mosquito nuisance has grown here largely as a result of the condition of the sewage disposal system, which town council has taken steps to clear up as soon as possible by the installation of an adequate system, and the lack of unified effort on the part of citizens as a whole in the early spring for a municipal housecleaning and the clearing up of mosquito-breeding holes and weed-grown lots.

It is to be earnestly hoped that next year residents will recall the discomforts suffered this season from the invasion of mosquitoes and join early in a concerted movement to prevent the further spread of the legion of pesky critters.

JUST FOLKS

By Edgar A. Guest

ON THE BEACH

Women young and women pretty,
Leading beauties from the city,
Dainty damsels, blonde, brunette,
Daughters of the upper set;
Laughing eyes and silver voices,
Yec not difficult the choice is.
One there is who's lovelier far
Than these radiant beauties are.

Some say this: The maid in pink!
Some the one in scarlet think
Fairest of that lovely throng,
But I hold that these are wrong;
Passes now a matron striking,
Type that suits some people's liking,
But one fairer far than she
Many a watcher failed to see.

There upon the sand that day
Youth and beauty met to play;
Grant them all at the beginning
To be free from cruel sinning,
Free from malice and deception,
Still there is, without exception,
One who sits where sunbeams fall,
Who is lovelier than all.

Maids and matrons flash your charms!
Show your lovely necks and arms;
Touch with paint your lips and faces,
Wear your costly silks and laces,
But enraptured still I gaze there
At a little child who plays there;
Radiant, lovely, though you may be—
More exquisite is that baby.

BALK OPENING OF WAR GUILT ISSUE

Berlin, Sept. 15.—German historians and publicists, who have been conducting independent investigations in connection with fixing responsibility for war guilt, oppose the government's intention of forcing a discussion through the issuance of a diplomatic note.

Prof. Hans Delbrueck, Count Max Montgelas and Dr. Paul Rohrbach, who are among the prominent Germans engaged in historic researches in connection with the outbreak of the war, have signed a joint statement in which they deplore the impending action of the German government, declaring that such procedure is inimical to an objective search for truth.

"In our opinion," they say, "the most effective way to arrive at the truth in this highly important question is to continue the present international scientific discussions."

A truthful man doesn't need much of a memory. Curiosity seems to be the chief characteristic of a fish. A shrewd man is always close to the border line of dishonesty.

A politician is a man whose conscience is suspended during the campaign.

Plain truth and common sense are about the only tools needed to build up a business.

Boils! Ouch!

S.S.S. will rid you of boils, pimples, blackheads and skin eruptions!

DON'T CLOSE your eyes to the warning which Nature gives when angry, painful boils appear on your neck, face or other parts of your body. Boils, pimples and so-called skin disorders are the result of an impoverished condition of the blood and are not to be trifled with.

It is nothing more than folly to expect to get absolute relief from the use of local treatments, such as ointments, salves, etc. Such remedies may afford temporary relief but you want more than relief; you want a remedy which will rid you forever of the torturing disorder. And the one remedy which has no equal is S.S.S.

S.S.S. stops boils and keeps them from coming. S.S.S. builds blood-power! That is what makes fighting blood. Fighting blood destroys impurities. It fights boils! It fights skin eruptions—pimples, blackheads, eczema! It always wins! S.S.S. has been known since 1826 as one of the greatest blood builders, blood cleansers and system strengtheners ever produced. There are no unproven theories about S.S.S., the scientific results of each of its purely vegetable medicinal ingredients are admitted by authorities. Begin taking S.S.S. today and clear your skin of those blood disorders!

S.S.S. is sold at all good drug stores in two sizes. The larger size is more economical.

TANNERY BURNS; LOSS IS $50,000

Philadelphia, Sept. 15.—Fire early Sunday morning destroyed raw leather stock and the one-story brick building of the Philadelphia Leather Company, Orthodox street, Bridesburg. The loss is placed at $50,000.

The origin of the fire is unknown. The watchman was in the front part of the mill when he noticed a small blaze in the rear. On investigation he found the blaze was in a mass of raw leather. He attempted to put out the fire with buckets of water, but the clouds of smoke almost overcame him.

All the fire engines in Bridesburg, Kensington and Frankford answered the alarm, but arrived too late. The rear and side walls crumbled, endangering the lives of a score of firemen. When the flames were finally extinguished only the front wall remained intact.

The desires of knowledge, like the thirst of riches, increases ever with the acquisition of it.

WOMEN VISIT NIPPON'S DIET

Tokio.—Advocates of women's rights in Japan are advancing, as proof of the women's increasing interest in political affairs, the fact that of 14,000 persons who occupied seats in the visitors' galleries of the two houses of the Diet during its extraordinary session last month 4,000 were women. No previous session of the Diet has had so many women visitors.

FARM CALENDAR

Digging Spuds—Don't be in too great a hurry to dig potatoes before they are thoroughly ripened. Allow the uncovered spuds to remain in the field only long enough for them to dry and then hustle them to the storage bins where they should be kept from the light.

Apple Pomace Silage—After the cider is squeezed from apples the remaining pomace makes excellent cattle feed and may be used either fresh from the press or put in the silo and fed later. This is apparently to be a poor corn silage year and all substitutes are worth considering, including grass of any kind, millet, clover, alfalfa and soy beans.

Peachborer Control—Those peach tree owners who have never used paradichlorobenzene for the control of the peach tree borer will do well to consider its use immediately. There are only about two weeks left for the safe use of this chemical. The county agent will give information as to its use.

Poultry Shows—If you are planning to exhibit any of your birds at poultry shows this fall it may be well to give them a training period of three or four weeks. Trained birds always commend the attention of the judges. Above all, be sure to get your entry blank in on time.

Rhubarb Plants—Before the rhubarb stalks die off it is a good plan to go through them and mark those outstanding plants for division and replanting this fall. Some care in selection can be made when digging and roots showing crown rot disease can be thrown out.

Fall Pigs—The way the hog market has been acting recently and the knowledge that there is a smaller number of swine in the country than usual make one feel that fall pigs are going to be good property next spring and summer. The wise farmer who is fortunate enough to have some sows bred for fall farrow will take good care of the fall pig crop and do everything possible to save a large per cent and grow them out rapidly.

MEXICO MINUS MANY MILLIONS

Mexico City.—The sum of 23,000,000 pesos appears in red ink on the government's books, says a statement by the treasury department, and is composed of uncollected sums due for customs and other federal duties. The department announces that a program of reforms is being studied both with the object of collecting what is now overdue and preventing future bad accounts.
